Abstract

The abstract is a brief summary of your paper. It typically includes the problem being studied, the participants, study method, and the general finding of the study. It should be written in 150–250 words and the body of the abstract should have no indentation. Following the abstract, keywords can be added to enhance the user's ability to find the paper. An example of how keywords are included following the abstract can be found below.

Keywords: keyword 1, keyword 2, keyword 3, keyword 4, keyword 5